Dedication

The greatest step of progress in the growth of the Bible College in recent years has been the acquisition of the men's dormitories and grounds during this past school year, 1939-40. Accordingly, The Finial, 1940, is duly dedicated to the men's dormitory. May the men of the Lord's choice be those that occupy these buildings and may each man's purpose be "To know Him and to make Him known."

The Men's Dormitory Miracle

The Finial was born the same year that the men's dormitory was added to the Bible College property, making our complete C. B. C. campus. It is fitting that the 1940 Finial should celebrate the real miracle the Lord worked in providing this property. The men of the class of 1940 are happy to go out as the first class to be graduated from our own men's dormitory property.

When we are face to face with impossibilities, many of us will think of this answered prayer in the provision of the first payments of $30 000 to purchase this property. We will ask the question, "Is anything too hard for the Lord?" (Gen. 18:14), and our answer will be that of Jeremiah: "Ah Lord Jehovah! behold, thou hast made the heavens and the earth by thy great power and by thine outstretched arm; there is nothing too hard for thee" (Jer. 32:17).

But this miracle of answered prayer was not granted to us for either our glory or our selfish enjoyment. It was the Lord's gracious challenge to make the real men's dormitory buildings a miracle of God. Our prayer is that God may send men of His own choice into that dormitory, and that as the men go out, each individual life and the Bible College men as a whole may be living witnesses of the miracle power of God.

The finial has not yet been put on the men's dormitory property; not all the payments have yet been made. As we look forward in prayer and faith to that supply, may it be symbolic of the fact that one day there will be a final, a crowning adornment of "well done" upon every one of the Bible College young men. Then it will be as in the prophecy made concerning Zerubbabel, "He shall bring forth the top stone with shoutings of Grace, grace, unto it" (Zech. 4:7).

And this is the message to Zerubbabel and to us: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts" (Zech. 4:6).

"I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Phil. 3: 15.

The President's Greeting to the Class of 1940

The year of your graduation is a fateful year in the history of the world. As the first graduating class in this present world war, you go out into wider service with new emphasis upon the fact that you are soldiers of the Lord Jesus Christ, our conquering King. You go out with a perfect understanding of what His plan of campaign is—to take the Gospel to the uttermost part. You go out with absolute certainty as to the outcome of the conflict. You go out knowing that the present war among the nations is a part of the age-long conflict between God and Satan, and that Christ is controlling every event. You go out with the joy of knowing that He is also controlling your life, and is as definitely interested in your individual plans as He is in the whole conflict. This, of course, is a challenge not to self-importance, but to a life that has no individual plans of its own except as they are related to Christ's program and purpose. "To me to live is Christ."

A finial is described as "a crowning adornment." My prayer for each of you, and for your class as a whole, is that you "may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things." Then one of the things that will make 1940 a notable year is the fact that this class was graduated from C. B. C. and went out to glorify Christ.

Farewell to the Seniors

The aspiration of every Senior is to scale the heights of service as he enters a future made certain by the promises of God. The name of the yearbook, The Finial, is symbolic of aspiration. Far above Hampton Street reaching in the quietness of the pure atmosphere toward the ceiling of the heaven are two small projecting budlike rods, two finials.

In their aloofness from the world below, in their upward reach, in their pristine dignity they represent in eloquent style the challenge of future service for the Senior class. It is our prayerful expectation that as the finials on the Bible College towers lift men's eyes toward heaven your lives may fulfill in a deeper measure that sacred purpose.

Tribute to C. B. C.

Undisturbed stars move in their courses above the crowning finials, while black robed figures advance along the aisle. Better known in heavenly places than to sons of men is Columbia Bible College.

It has come at last, the day for which we have lived and longed; but with it comes the ache of leaving friends and countless things we have learned to love.

We have found in these halls a higher standard and a nobler aim, and surely, when will our thirst for knowledge again find relief at a fountain sweet as this?

Four years, all too short to quench the burning dryness in our hearts; but there is a well of praise springing up, a fountain of living water—a Person, the Lord Jesus Christ. We thank you for giving us—Him.

The Little Clay Road

The Little Clay Road

It's only a little clay road that runs in no very certain way and to no where in particular, but it seems to be a path of nature's special choosing. Out of her paintpot have spilled red, orange, a bit of yellow that mingle in the clay together. Scattered here and there are fragments of Indian paint rock which are just dull purple at first glance but which yield dusty blue, yellow, or red coloring to one who will pry inside and see. And there are countless little stones that slide and rattle underfoot, though looking pinkly innocent. It's pitted by the hoofs of rushing horses on the hunt and gullied by the rain, this little road—but only thus made more beautiful.

Standing guard on either side are tall, stately southern pines, the aristocrats of trees, their younger ones grouped cozily about their knees. Noble and true they seem as, erect, they lift their boughs heavenward, and yet how friendly and companionable is their whispering. It is some secret they murmur in laughing enjoyment, but which they teasingly refuse to share. To one who listens with closed eyes it seems at times like the distant rumble of the sea and then again like the rustling of ladies' taffeta skirts. While one is listening, he will probably hear, too, a sharp, cheery, "Bob White! Bob, Bob White!" as one quail calls to another, or hear the whir of wings as a startled covey brushes through the branches. Amiably beaming from a sky so azure, so lofty that even thoughts are lost in its expanse, the sun tips all the needles with glossy sheen. As brightly as a well-kept setter's coat they shine and in return send forth their scent, clear and pungent.

Red-orange clay, green pines, blue sky, all clothed in clearest brightness—this is the little road's picture by day.

Slowly the sun dips down below the tops of tallest trees. Pines hush their whisper; bird calls cease. The world about the little clay road seems waiting and watching the panorama of the skies. There, golden ships sail enchanted crimson seas, only to sink into violet oblivion, then at last are covered with a soft, gray veil. And it is almost night.

The pines resume their whispering. Their communing is still secret, but their gayety is gone. They sigh and seem to say "It's been so long, so long . . ." Etched black against the dusky gray, the long pine plumes nod in agreement. And as the soft wail lingers, beplumed black natives seem to sway in conjure dance. Shadows reach their groping fingers across the little clay road, now somber with the loss of light. Soon, even the shadows are absorbed in darkness. In the distance a whippoorwill sounds his eerie, unwearying cry. On the little clay road it is night.

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF BEN LIPPEN BOYS SCHOOL

MAIN BUILDING

COLLEGE PREPARATORY

The aim of the School is to give a complete course of high academic standards to prepare boys for the college in which they plan to enroll. Indications point to the prospects of a strong, well equipped faculty. The 9th and 10th grades will be offered this fall; the 11th and 12th will be added next year.

IDEAL SITUATION

Eighty eight acres over 2,000 feet in elevation in "The Land of the Sky" in the mountains of western North Carolina at the gateway of the Great Smoky National Park affording most healthful surroundings and unusual facilities for out of door recreation.

INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION

The small classes will enable the teachers of BEN LIPPEN BOYS SCHOOL to come into close touch with the pupils and thus to give them personal counsel and guidance.

EXTRA CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

This important part of a boy's life is being planned so as to give him well-rounded development coupled with wholesome recreation, social life, athletics, and cultural advantages.

CHRISTIAN CHARACTER BUILDING

Christ and the Bible will be put at the center of the life and activities of BEN LIPPEN BOYS SCHOOL in order that well-rounded Christian manhood may be the outcome.
